How to Freeze and Can Corn

Select corn with fresh, succulent husks with good green color. silk ends that are free from decay or worm injury, and stem ends that are not too discolored or dry. Ears should be well covered with plump, tender kernels.

Avoid ears with underdeveloped kernels which lack yellow color (in yellow corn), old ears with very large kernels, and ears with dark yellow kernels wilted, or dried husks, or discolored and dried-out stem ends.

Corn is one of those vegetables which is at its best when freshly harvested. If possible, prepare for freezing or canning within two hours after harvesting. If that is not possible, refrigerate corn.

Remove husks and silk, and wash the corn.

FREEZING CORN

Whole-kernel or cream-style

Heat ears in boiling water for 4 minutes. Cool quickly in ice cold water and drain.

For whole-kernel corn, cut kernels from cob at about two-thirds the depth of the kernels. For cream-style, cut at about center of kernels. then scrape the cob to remove the juice and heart of the kernel.

Pack corn into containers, leaving ½-inch headspace. Seal. Freeze; store at 0°F. or below.

On-the-cob

Sort ears according to size. Heat in boiling water:

Small ears (less than 1¼" in diameter) 7 minutes

Medium ears 9 minutes

Large ears (over 1½" in diameter) 11 minutes

The heating time is longer for corn to be frozen on the cob as the heat must penetrate through the cob as well as the kernel.

Drop ears of corn into ice cold water. Drain. Package ears. Seal. Freeze; store at 0°F. or below.

CANNING CORN

Recipes of the Week

Cream-style

Cut corn from cob at about center of kernel, then scrape the cob to remove the juice and heart of the kernel. Add 2 cups of boiling water for each 4 cups of corn and bring to a boil.

Pack hot corn to 1 inch of top of pint jar. USE PINT JARS ONLY. Add ½ teaspoon salt to each jar. Remove air bubbles by running spatula or knife between food and jar. Adjust jar lids.

Process in pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure (240°F.).

Pint jars ..... 55 minutes

Quart jars ..... 85 minutes

Whole-kernel

Cut corn from cob at about two-thirds the depth of the kernel. Do not scrape cob. Add 2 cups of boiling water for each 4 cups of corn and bring to a boil.

Pack hot corn and liquid to 1 inch of top of jars. Add ½ teaspoon salt to pint jars; 1 teaspoon to quarts. Remove air bubbles by running spatula or knife between food and jar. Adjust jar lids.

Process in pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure (240°F.).

Pints jars ..... 55 minutes

Quart jars ..... 85 minutes

The small amount of salt used adds flavor but may be omitted.

Revival at Red Oak

Red Oak Baptist Church at Oakville, Va. on Route 26, will hold revival services July 20-25 at 7:30 p.m. each evening. Dr. Bob Davis will be the evangelist for the services, and will also be the speaker for the 10:55 a.m. Sunday morning service on July 20.

Dr. Davis is a full time evangelist. He and his wife, Norma Beach Davis and daughters, Joy 12, and Lori, 10, make their home at Thomas Terrace, Concord, Va.

Dr. Davis received his Bachelor of Biblical Education at The Columbia Bible College in Columbia, S.C., and his Bachelor and Master of Divinity at The Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas, and his Doctor of Theology at The Luther Rice Seminary in Jacksonville, Fla.

He pastored the following churches: Antioch Baptist Church, Gaston, S.C., First Baptist Church, Sunset, Texas, First Baptist Church, Barry, Texas, Calvary Baptist Church, Concord, Va., Grace Baptist Church, Cumberland, Md., Grace Baptist Church, Seaford, Delaware.

Dr. Davis also conducted revivals across the USA and in Jamaica.

The Sunday School will help the revival by using the "Pack The Pew Plan." Classes have been assigned pews to try to fill each night of the revival.

The Oakville Buritans will be special guest on Wednesday evening.

Mr. John Hall, of Liberty Baptist Church, will again lead the congregational singing.

Special music will be presented each evening by Liberty Chapel Baptist Choir, Mount Comfort Methodist Choir, Fellowship Four of Trinity Methodist Church, Mr. John Hall, Mrs. Jesse Guill and Mr. Travis Poole.

The Burge Family Trio and Mrs. Shirley Moore, of Red Oak, will also present special music. The Red Oak Adult Choir is under the direction of Mrs. Peggy Rodgers. The Carol and Crusader Choirs are under the direction of Mrs. Edith Harris.

The Pastor, Rev. G. Edward Hughes and congregation of Red Oak extend a cordial invitation to the public for all services.

Following the indoctrination Rhett Mozingo, Wood Procurement Manager, Tom Marshall, Assistant Wood Procurement Manager and Woodyard Manager, and their team of Foresters - Mike Gibbs, Blair Meredith, Marvin Tinsley and Jim Wood - hosted the group at a barbecue on the mill grounds.

With start-up so close at hand, the event was most timely. Once in production, the mill will require some 3,500 cords of pulpwood per week. This continuous need will provide hundreds of loggers in the area with a dependable market for their harvest - a fact that both Virginia Fibre and the wood producers appreciate.

Area Wood Producers Given Day At New Virginia Fibre Mill

Friday, June 27 was a special day in Riverville. It was the day that independent wood producers from surrounding counties gathered at the new Virginia Fibre mill for a special indoctrination tour and barbecue. The event was set-up for the 80 attending loggers, landowners and State Foresters by the Wood Procurement group of the Company.

The tour began at the scale house, moved to the woodyard and then followed each step of the containerboard manufacturing process throughout the mill, concluding at the loading docks where the giant rolls of corrugating medium will soon be shipped. Question and answers concerning the operation were exchanged freely between the loggers and their guides. During this special session, Virginia Fibre not only put its pulpwood specifications in a meaningful perspective for

Patrick Henry Boys Plantation To Benefit By Coin Auction

BROOKNEAL - A fabulous auction sale is to take place in Brookneal Saturday, July 19, at the Gold Leaf Warehouse, which is located on Wickliffe Avenue, State Highway 43 in the corporate limits.

At 10 a. m. many valuable articles and antique items will be offered. These are from collected by J. Kenneth Andrews, who for years conducted auction sales, and continues to attend auction sales. He states that he is not retiring from this business. Included will be such items as marble top furniture, bevel edge mirrows, cut glass, depression glass, carnival glass, sandwich glass, old lamps, bowl and pitcher sets that "used to go along with them," a lot of brasswear, guns, farm bells, dolls, wall telephones and many other articles and furniture.

At 1 p. m, thousands of coins, many very very rare, will be offered for sale as the result of a will of a friend of Patrick Henry Boys Plantation. All from this sale will go to the boys home.

A limited list included 235 Jefferson Memorial cents, 2500 wheats cents, various dates, large cents from 1817 to 1850, 1857 Flying Eagle cent, several Braided Hair cents, a number of books of coins, 1807 half-cent, a 1867 2 cent piece, 18 Civil War tokens, 1863 half dime, 1922 P. cent mint error, which is considered rare, 1946 Booker T. Washington Coinoffcentennial half dollar, Lexington-Concord anniversary half dollar, and a Biblical coin that dates in early A. D.

Also a necklace with gold 25¢ and 50¢ pieces, many rolls of various coins of numerous denominations. These are only a few of the many to be offered, and they will be on display from 10 a. m. to the time of the sale.

Does summer produce bugging stump you? With all the beautiful fresh vegetables and fruits which await you in retail stores and farmers' markets now is the time to brush up on some basic guidelines for purchasing produce.

As each local vegetable and fruit item increases in supply look for the price tag to drop. Always remember that produce items are usually at their best quality and price at the peak of the season. As a consumer you have a right to demand quality or freshness such as bright lively color and crispness. Learn the difference between a blemish that affects appearance and those that affect eating quality.

When you get your produce purchases home, handle them carefully. Bruising and damage cause the loss of some produce items. If a fruit item is not quite ripe let it sit on a counter at room temperature until ripe and then refrigerate. Other than unripe tomatoes most vegetable choices should be washed and refrigerated immediately.

It's important that you buy the amount of fresh produce that you can properly store in your refrigerator. or that you can use without waste. Store periods differ so that produce manager produce manager purchased the item storage time needed.

Since different and fruits are supply at different summer through July and August, greater abundance vegetables and from than any during the year produced proper harvest seasons ensures their top quality. farmers harvest and take care of Cucumbers In Abundance?

Marmalade them!

Geraldine Marshall likes to make things that are different as well as unusual. One example is the "apron bonnet". Geraldine uses a pattern belonging to her grandmother. The technique of making the one garment serve two purposes is all in the way the apron is buttoned. By using a drip dry polyester fabric the bonnet and/or apron is completely washable.

For the exotic in recipes try Mrs. Marshall's "Cucumber Marmalade".

Cucumber Marmalad.

2 cups cucumbers (chopped fine), ⅓ cup lemon juice, 2 Tablspoons lemon rind (grated), 4 cups sugar, ½ bottle Certo fruit pectin, a few drops of food coloring (optional). Mix cucumbers, sugar, juice and rind. Bring to a full boil for 1 minute and stir constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in certo. Skim off foam. Stir and skim for 5 minutes. Ladle into jars. Seal. Makes 4½ cups.

Plans to Help Users of Restricted Pesticides Meet Certification Requirements

Plans are under way to help private and commercial users of "restricted-use" pesticides to meet certification requirements of federal and state laws.

"Restricted-use" pesticides are those considered by the Environmental Protection Agency as harmful to man or the environment if used carelessly, stated J. A. Smith, Extension Agent.

Schools will be conducted this fall and winter by Virginia Tech's Extension Division in cooperation with the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce (VDAC), which is the certifying agency, Smith said.

A fact sheet on the program, describing who should be certified and how to become certified, will be mailed to known applicators by August 4. Along with the fact sheet will be a return postcard asking under which category certification is sought - private or commercial. The postcard should be completed and mailed promptly, the Extension agent urged.

Most homeowners will not need to be certified, since there will be enough "general-use" pesticides available to meet their needs Smith said. But for every major crop grown in Virginia, there will probably be at least one recommended pesticide classified "restricted-use", the agent added.

"To be on the safe side, all pesticide applicators should become certified," recommended Smith.

Persons interested in the certification program who have not received materials in the mail by August 11, should contact their Appomattox County Extension Office.

questionnaire this year has been the best ever. More than 1.2 million were sent nationwide with November checks, and all but 120,000 had been returned by January 15. Return was requested for January 1.

Of Interest To Veterans

Veterans Administration pensioners who failed to return a required income questionnaire mailed to them in November face a possible delay in their Pension payments checks.

The Roanoke VA Regional Office explained that the questionnaires are required by law. Income questionnaires are sent to veterans receiving pensions based on nonservice-connected disabilities, to widows, to widowers of veterans who died of nonservice - connected causes and to certain parents of veterans killed in service. Pensions to these beneficiaries are based on income, and eligibility must be established each year. Persons over 72 years old are exempt from filing the questionnaires if they have been receiving benefits two years or more. They must report changes that might occur in income, however.

VA said that response to the
